

A Career Skills Presentation for Young Employees by Alfred Poor America's Success Mentor for Young Employees

Today's young workers aren't ready for the workplace...

Alfred Poor can help them!

It's a jungle out there! A recent study by the Center for Professional Excellence at York College of Pennsylvania revealed the biggest gaps between what HR staff and hiring managers need and what they get from new hires. Topping their list of problem areas are lack of work ethic, lack of taking responsibility for decisions and actions, and poor communication skills, both verbal and written.

This lively and dynamic presentation is packed with practical information that your employees can put to work right away to avoid the pitfalls and dangers of real-world employment. (Programs for HR staff and managers are also available.)

Your young employees will:

- Be more confident about their ability to succeed in the workplace, and
- Learn at least one new strategy that they can apply in their jobs.

And you will get the measured results that prove these outcomes!

Why would you get career advice from a man who has not had a paycheck in 30 years?

Alfred Poor, PhD received his last paycheck in 1982. Since then, he has built a successful career as a freelance writer, speaker, and trainer. He has survived in a world without guaranteed stability, where each assignment for a client could be the last. To survive, he had to learn how to find his way through tangled bureaucracies and to forge lasting bonds with decision-makers at all levels.

With humor and energy, Alfred Poor is a skilled teacher who can convey old-school concepts of initiative and responsibility to today's young workers in a way that they can take to heart and put into practice.

Alfred works with companies of all sizes that want to support their young workers in the transition from student to employee so that they can successfully hit the ground running in that first job after graduation, find personal fulfillment, and move quickly to become valued and productive employees for their companies.

What They Say about Alfred Poor

“Alfred is a wonderful speaker with rich and diverse experience.”

Joseph Facchiano, JoFash Enterprises, LLC

“Alfred Poor has hit the nail on the head with this one. As a corporate trainer, I’ve often heard owners and managers express exasperation over the attitudes and work behavior shown by the younger members of the workforce. Without acquiring the work habits needed for success in the real world, their genius may never be realized and their talent valued.”

Ken Davis, KenDavisTeamStuff

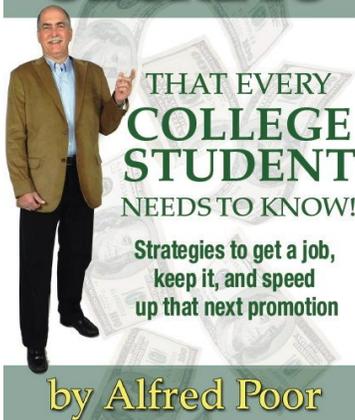

“Alfred shares his incredible knowledge and street smart wisdom in a way that is powerfully packed with applicable tips. There is no doubt that Alfred has become America's best young worker coach and he is sure to help any student create their own magical career experience.”

John Formica, author of “Making the Customer Experience Magical Now!”

“I have had the pleasure to hear Alfred Poor speak. He delivers his content in an easy to understand format. He made the complicated seem simple.”

Ken Varilek, Elite Human Solutions Inc.
